Following completion of the draft proposed rule, the Commission will review the work of the Committee, make any necessary changes, and begin the rule promulgation process. This includes: (1) requesting an exemption to the rulemaking moratorium; (2) filing a notice of intent; (3) publishing the proposed rule; (4) holding a public hearing to accept public comment; (5) reviewing the public comments; (6) adopting a final rule; (7) submitting the rule to the Attorney General for review; (8) submitting the rule to the Governor for approval; and (9) filing the final rule for publication in the Indiana Register. Prior to any rule becoming effective, all these steps must be completed and the requisite approvals must be obtained.
